One-to-One:

When I write the workbook containing this cell out to a file and open it with Excel, the cell is displayed as a number. Yes, I do realize that Excel stores its 'dates' as the number of days since January 1 1900 and that is what the number in the cell represents.

MOM:

Ideally I want the spreadsheet cell to be displayed with the same default date format that Excel would have assigned it if a user had manually opened the spreadsheet in Excel and typed in a cell value that Excel recognized as being a date.
